ARC PRESS RELEASE - Faiths and Copenhagen December 1 2009 (60 KB)

December 1, 2009: The eyes of the world are on Copenhagen this week as representatives of the world's governments gather to negotiate a new climate treaty. The urgency of a comprehensive, fair and effective treaty to protect the living planet has never been greater. Alongside the inter-governmental process, which may or may not achieve an agreement at Copenhagen, the civil society movement to protect the natural environment has a new and, for some, surprising champion – the religions.
